Interviewing the School Captain

-An Interview Transcript

Deputy Literary Secretary: You have been in Global Edge for the past seven to eight years. Who all have inspired you to become a leader?

School Captain (Ishan): Ever since I arrived at this school I have seen quite a lot of leaders. The first name I would say is Lalith bhaiya. When I joined, he was in around ninth grade, and the first thing that struck me was how powerful he was. I wanted to be like that. To be someone everyone looked up to. That is one of the reasons I chose to take the role of school captain in the first place. Going forward, there were a lot more people. Yamini akka, who played a big role in how I think, what I do in my free time like MUNs, and how I see leadership. There was Ranjita ma'am, who herself is such a great leader. She has been managing this school ever since I was here, and has been doing it in such an immaculate way.

All of these people showed me what it truly means to be a leader. Put someone else's interests before yours; think about others before you think about yourself. All of these things seem to me, like a noble thing to do, a noble way of life. Hence, inspiring me to be the leader I am today.

Deputy Literary Secretary: Tell us about your election manifesto. How far have you gotten through your election manifesto?

Ishan: If you talk about my election manifesto, I didn't really have a manifesto. It was about doing something that hasn't been done before. Rather than going ahead and telling everyone that I would give them free games periods, or maybe something that is not practical. I thought that I should do something that is actually achievable. Throughout this year, the council has been working behind the scenes, conducting assemblies, making sure the corridors are safe for the students. And yeah, now we have started looking into things that can be implemented to make the school a better place. Whether it be programs for wellness, or basic things that can make the school a better place. We just had a meeting last week, now we will be proposing a few solutions, and we really hope we can get them implemented.

Deputy Literary Secretary: We'd like to know about Ishan Sejush as a person. What would you say you aim for in the future in your career?

Ishan: If we talk about the world right now, it is all AI. People have a compulsion to go to the AI field, because AI is going to be everything in a few years. I don't really believe in doing something you don't like. So, I believe that if you have a job, you should be self-motivated rather than compelled to have that job. That is my entire purpose towards life, the way I look at life.

Deputy Literary Secretary: Is there any message you would like to give to the future school captains of Global Edge?

Ishan: The message I would give to future leaders is very simple. Rather than looking too far ahead into the future, look at what's happening around you, look at what's happening now. And you will find so much more that you can do, than you can think of doing later on.

TGES MUN - 2025

-Ishaan Sejush
Secretary-General
TGES MUN 2025

On the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd of August, The Global Edge School, Kokapet, transformed into a miniature United Nations - a platform of powerful debates and groundbreaking solutions. These dates marked TGES MUN 2025, the fifth edition of a conference that has been inspiring young diplomats to raise their voices since 2017. This year's edition witnessed the participation of around 200 delegates who represented a diverse array of nations and portfolios across five dynamic committees: the United Nations Security Council (UNSC), the United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC), the Disarmament and International Security Committee (DISEC), the Continuous Crisis Committee (CCC), and the International Press Corps (IP). Over the course of three days, delegates collaborated to tackle pressing global issues ranging from war and disarmament to poverty, malnutrition, and beyond.

As a student-led initiative, TGES MUN'25 stood as a testament to what a dedicated team can achieve when they unite with a shared vision.

The conference commenced with a vibrant Opening Ceremony that featured captivating performances, speeches from the dignitaries and an inspiring keynote address by Mr. Mir Mustafa Ali Hasan, who currently serves in the Executive Division of the United Nations Climate Change Secretariat in Bonn. The Secretary General's address, followed by the symbolic banging of the gavel, officially opened the floor to three days of rigorous debate, negotiation, and diplomacy across the different committees.

The Closing Ceremony celebrated the outstanding contributions of delegates, recognizing exceptional debating and journalistic skills with well-deserved awards. The event concluded with addresses by the Deputy Secretary General and Secretary General, bringing the conference to a close with the strike of the gavel.

By the end of the third day, TGES MUN 2025 had proven itself a resounding success. The innovative solutions and spirited exchanges showcased the boundless potential of young minds, a reminder that the power of thought and collaboration can transcend barriers of age and shape a brighter future for all.

Classrooms to Campaigns: The next student council:

~Aadhya Suneel 10A

The heart of any school lies not in its walls or timetables, but in the relentless energy of its students. And if there was ever a week that truly echoed with that spirit, it was the third week of July—when our campus transformed from silent classrooms to vibrant campaigns, buzzing with cheers, posters, and purpose.

The student council elections weren't just about who won what. They were a full-blown experience. An unforgettable chapter. From screaming house chants to carefully constructed campaign speeches, every corridor had a story—of friendships, rivalries, debates, and endless discussions.

This year, the elections didn't just teach us about democracy—they showed us what it looked like in action. Students didn't just vote—they felt. They resonated. They stood behind leaders who reflected their own voice. Whether it was the thunderous rallies or the graceful investiture ceremony, this old tradition was revived with a new wave of enthusiasm—living up to the legacy our seniors set, and maybe even raising the bar just a little higher.

The nominees? Each one, a powerhouse. They weren't just names on a ballot—they were years of effort, service, and silent hustle finally coming into the spotlight. From sports fields to debate halls, from backstage to stage-front, these were students who earned our trust the hard way—and deserved every bit of the recognition they received.

In the end, it's not just about who wears the badge. It's about what they do with it. And looking at this batch of leaders, one thing is clear—they aren't here to decorate positions. They're here to define them.

So, leaders of tomorrow, Buckle up, tie your shoelaces and live up to the standards your seniors have set for you.

And the rest of the students, let's just say this is just the beginning.

A Red Carpet Tribute: Teachers' Day 2025

Early in September, The Global Edge School, Kokapet branch, celebrated Teachers' Day with great enthusiasm, to commemorate the birthday of Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, and to show their gratitude to their teachers.

The event opened, with Sumukh and Abdul who took the stage for the Welcome Address, with a hilarious introductory speech. This was followed by a melodious musical performance led by Manvi and Aadhya's group, which really helped set the mood. The rhythms continued with a vibrant cultural dance performance by the 8th graders, followed by a patriotic dance.

Students took the stage, for the "Guess the Teacher" segment, where students dressed up, and acted as their teacher, while the audience had to guess which teacher was being portrayed. The talented actors of Grade 6A showcased a play, on Independence, enacting our country's struggle for freedom, once again, bringing a sense of patriotism to the assembly. As the day progressed, the 9th and 10th graders took the spotlight with a graceful dance performance that celebrated resilience and camaraderie. The event culminated with the Grand Finale, where teachers walked the Red Carpet, leading into an Oscars style tribute to the teachers.

On the whole, The event was carried out with great enthusiasm and was a great success with students of all grades coming together, using their talents to present their gratitude for their teachers. The event not only entertained the audience, but also strengthened the bond between the students and the educators.

MAGIC OF MATHS

Maths is full of fun,
With so much to learn.
Profits are added,
While losses are subtracted.
Degrees are multiplied,
and percentage is divided.
Geometry is full of mystery,
Algebra has a big history.
Maths is necessary in life.
Without it it's difficult to survive.

"They never knew who I was":

They never knew who I was
For, I always hid myself
Never spoke a word of anything
And never really asked for help
They questioned and pondered
"What is wrong with her?",
"Is she okay?" or "Where is she lost?"
She, who was me was indeed lost
Just, not in any good way
We grew up and years passed by
But I was the same as always
For I never had the fire in my belly
Or the zeal to live
Everything felt black and white
Then, one night, I cried myself to sleep
While listening to my favourite tunes
I realized, I had talent, no need for a boon
The fire that lit up in my eyes, mainly for the music I heard
I started dancing my heart out, feeling joy
Doing what most would describe as "just a hobby"-
Grew into my passion by the day
Now, here I stand in front of you all,
Holding what I dreamt of most
That is not this award
It is the memories I made, the moments I danced
All feeling myself at last
Don't be in a hurry
Take it slow...
One day, you will know
What is meant for you and what is not
What you love and what you just like a lot.

EVERYONE CAN BE A LEADER

This year, a powerful new initiative, The Leader In Me program, has been introduced at The Global Edge School, Kokapet under the guidance of the renowned psychiatrist Dr. Kannan Gireesh. This program is designed to transform students into empathetic, self-confident, and effective leaders. The program is built around the timeless principles found in The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People.

The program aims to develop crucial life skills, including strong relationship skills and positive behaviors, by teaching students to apply these seven habits every day. The Seven Habits we learnt about are:-

Be Proactive - Take responsibility for your actions and choices instead of blaming circumstances.

Begin With The End In Mind - Have a clear vision of your goals before you start.

Put First Things First - Focus on what's important, not just what's urgent.

Think Win-Win - Seek solutions where everyone benefits.

Seek First To Understand, Then To Be Understood - Listening carefully before sharing your own view.

Synergize - Working together to achieve more than you could alone.

Sharpen The Saw - Keep improving yourself mentally, physically, emotionally and spiritually.

For me, the impact of The Leader In Me has been immediate and profound. I have actively implemented these habits in my daily life by prioritizing tasks, planning ahead, working on improving myself both mentally and physically and make it a point to listen to other people's perspectives. These habits have truly motivated me and become a part of my routine.

As part of my learning, I even created my own version of the Important and Urgent Matrix, also known as the Eisenhower Matrix, which has greatly improved my time management skills. By applying these principles, I've successfully overcome some of my bad habits, such as playing video games, crying unnecessarily and watching TV.

According to me, other schools should also adopt the Leader In Me programme, as it helps create a positive learning environment, builds students' confidence, and strengthens their relationship and social skills. Thank you to our school for this wonderful initiative!

Football

~Sourasish Roy 5D

Football has been a long tradition since 162 years. It is also a very popular sport for its favourism.

Sometimes we might forget the rules of football and play and argue over “ who did what?” So for this a referee is appointed in a match. A referee is a person who ensures that the rules of football are followed. I like the sport and it's very fun to play. I had 3 years of football experience. We don't play to win but to just enjoy ourselves.

People have different playing techniques to play football.

There are some positions appointed to each player. Whenever I play in my community, we always make teams with one beginner and other good players. Everyone's allowed to play football, not only children. Many players have changed the history of football like: Ronaldo, Messi, Maradona, Johan cruyff, etc. There are also many shooting techniques like the Puska, toepoke, curve, trivela, knuckle ball, etc.

Fun facts:

Football was invented in 1863.

Fifa was created in 1904.

The crossbar never even existed! Two poles were 7.84 metres apart. However high you kicked in between the poles it counted as a goal.

The first match was played between Scotland and England. Goalkeepers were only allowed to use their bare hands for blocking the goal.

Goalkeepers weren't always allowed to use their hands. Early football rules allowed anyone within the penalty area to use their hands.

Football is in over 200 countries and territories making it a truly global sport.

A JOURNEY THROUGH COLOURS AND HISTORY

~Arya Bhatt 10A

Our adventure began on a bright September morning at Hyderabad Airport, with our hearts racing from excitement. As the plane took off toward Jaipur, the idea of exploring Rajasthan filled us with wonder. Our first stop was Ranthambore, the land of tigers and tales. The night was filled with chatter, and the next morning, the jungle safari offered thrilling glimpses of deer, peacocks, and the deep silence of the wild. However, quite unfortunately, we couldn't see any tigers. By afternoon, we arrived in Jaipur, the Pink City glowing in the sun.

The marvellous architecture of Amer Fort and the antiquity of Jal Mahal felt like walking through history. At Bapu Bazaar, colors, crafts, and chaos mixed into pure joy, and our DJ night concluded with laughter echoing in the halls. The journey to Agra brought a quiet excitement, as it was our final stop. Standing before the Taj Mahal, its marble shining in the morning light, we finally understood why it is called a symbol of love. As we flew back to Hyderabad, tired but filled with memories, I realized this wasn't just a school trip; it was a journey through time, friendship, and discovery.

Tadoba Trip 2025

A few days ago, our school had taken us on a trip to Tadoba in Maharashtra, which is famous for its wide varieties of animals, but especially known for the Big Five, which are

Sloth bears

Wild dogs

Gaur (Indian Bison)

Leopards

And last but not at all least, the TIGERS!

To get there, we took the Rajdhani Express, and the teachers were very fun and up-beat, making the train ride which took the time of five hours fly by! We arrived at the Balders Shah airport, and boarded our bus to go on a ride to reach our resort in Tadoba. After reaching the resort, we took some rest and had lunch.

We were all longing to catch a glimpse of a tiger during our stay there. The resort in which we were staying gave everyone an amazing experience and the staff did such an incredible job that it really did feel like a home away from home. The food given was extravagant, providing an array of veg and non-veg meals.

After eating to our heart's desires, we boarded the bus yet again to go meet the Sarpanch of the village twenty minutes or so away from the resort. We did not get to meet the locals due to an incident involving a tiger, but the Sarpanch had enough time to explain how a project to re-use plastic littered by the locals was being conducted for almost four years!

Back at the resort, we met a person we had all been yearning to see – the Birdman of Tadoba. During our delicious and filling tea time, he performed a variety of calls of birds and animals and gave us vital and important information while keeping it fun and interesting. We expressed our gratitude through a heart-felt thank you and went to our rooms to get some rest (After having a lot of fun, of course).

After a nice and peaceful sleep, we woke up long before sunrise at 4:00 am to go on the experience we had all been waiting for – the tiger safari! We spotted several animals and birds, and thanks to the Birdman's earlier explanations, we could recognize many of them. After going on a special and mind-blowing ride, we came to take a break and eat breakfast at a place at the gates of the safari, after which we went to explore the rest of the forest. Although I had not seen a tiger, one of the other groups had shared their thrilling experience in which they had spotted one!

Then, we went via bus to our resort to perform an outdoor survival challenge consisting of activities such as a balancing game in which five people had to pull five strings, with a ball in the middle, to the other side of the room, tent pitching, first aid, and a Maggi Walk in which we had to cook Maggi on our own. Then after having tea and celebrating birthdays, we went outside to have lots of fun at a campfire, after which we packed our belongings and went to sleep.

On the final morning, we had a scrumptious breakfast and got ready to leave. Before leaving, we had a closing ceremony where they handed out certificates and badges to everybody, some of them getting special certificates. Then, we played a reflection circle in which we were asked some questions for which we gave the answers. We gave the staff a thank you from the bottom of our hearts and boarded our bus back to Hyderabad. This trip to Tadoba was not just about seeing wildlife—it was about learning, bonding, and experiencing the wonders of nature. Truly, it was one of the best adventures of my life!

MY MEMORABLE TRIP TO KERALA

~Mishika Maheshwari 4E

I went to Kerala with my family, and it was one of the most memorable trips of my life. Our journey started in Kochi, where we visited the famous Athirapally Waterfalls. The view of the waterfall was so beautiful and refreshing. After that, we went to Alleppey and enjoyed a peaceful shikara ride in the backwaters. The sight of green palm trees, calm water, and houseboats made the experience very special.

Next, we travelled to Munnar, which is full of tea gardens and hills. There, we watched a traditional fusion dance of Kerala and also saw the martial art called Kalaripayattu. It was very exciting to see the performers. From Munnar, we went to Thekkady, where we had an amazing elephant safari. We also visited the Periyar National Park and spotted some wild animals.

Thekkady became even more special for me because my birthday was celebrated there. My family surprised me with a cake, and we enjoyed the day together with lots of fun and laughter. Celebrating my birthday in such a beautiful place made the trip unforgettable.

During the journey, we also purchased chocolates and fridge magnets as souvenirs. The weather was very pleasant—it rained sometimes and was sunny at other times. The changing weather made the trip even more enjoyable.

I had a wonderful time exploring Kerala with my family. It was truly an unforgettable experience filled with fun, adventure, and happiness.

Wonders of Hampi

~Anvaya Gupta

During the Dussehra holidays, my family and I went to a place in Karnataka called Hampi. Hampi is a small town on the banks of the river Tungabhadra, and it is a UNESCO World Heritage Site. We visited Hampi because it is famous for its great cultural and historical value. Even though it is small, people from all over the world come to see its old monuments and beautiful carvings.

On the first day, we visited the Vitthala Temple. This temple has musical pillars. When you tap the pillars, they make musical sounds! I also saw a big, old stone chariot there. At first, I couldn't remember where I had seen it before, but then I noticed many people holding ₹50 notes. I suddenly realized that the chariot is on the ₹50 note!

Next, we went to the Raghunathaswamy Temple. It is special because Lord Rama stayed there for some time during the monsoon season. After that, we visited the Virupaksha Temple, which is dedicated to Lord Shiva. It is the most sacred temple in Hampi. We saw many other beautiful temples too. I felt like everything I had read in my "Our Rich Heritage" chapter came alive during this trip. Now, I appreciate and value our culture and history even more.

On the second day, we went to Anjanadri Parvata, which is believed to be the birthplace of Lord Hanuman. To reach the main temple on the hilltop, we had to climb 575 steps! It was very hot and tiring, but with the encouragement from other devotees and excitement, we made it to the top. We were able to perform darshan of Lord Hanuman. Finally, we visited the Tungabhadra Dam. The dam was huge—I have never seen such a big dam before. It looked like the walls were touching the sky.

This trip to Hampi was very memorable for me. I got to see a lot that I had read in my school books, which made learning feel real and exciting. Hampi was once the capital of the Vijayanagara Empire and one of the richest cities in the world, but now it is mostly ruins. Still, it is a wonderful place full of history, myths, and amazing monuments. At first, I was not sure if I would enjoy going to Hampi, but it turned out to be a very adventurous and informative journey.
